

A History of Eagles

DRA has recognized numerous Eagle Awardees in year's past for their outstanding service to the disability community in the year of their award. Eagles are businesses, government entities, individuals and organizations who have distinguished themselves by actively working to support people with disabilities through:

- Developing and implementing accessibility solutions;
- Changing policies, practices and behaviors in a way that benefits people with disabilities;
- Partnering with the disability community;
- Innovating and setting precedents that influence peer companies/entities to take similar, positive measures that benefit the disability community;
- Employing and promoting people with disabilities;
- Developing and implementing excellent written disability, inclusion and diversity policies; and/or
- Committing resources to support disability-focused organizations.
